THE EUROPEAN LABEL FORUM 2026

CO-CREATING THE FUTURE OF THE LABELS AND PACKAGING INDUSTRY

27-29 MAY 2026, BARCELÓ SEVILLA RENACIMIENTO | SEVILLE | SPAIN

In 2026, Europe's label and packaging value chain continues to operate in a baseline of uncertainty—shaped by fragile growth, shifting trade dynamics, geopolitical tension, and complex regulation. Yet 2025 reminded us that resilience is not a slogan but a capability, built through knowledge, relationships, and continuous adaptation.

That is why FINAT's mission matters more than ever: connecting the industry community, providing trusted insight, enabling pre-competitive collaboration, representing shared interests, and accelerating capability building through education.

FINAT's European Label Forum (ELF) is the defining annual moment where the leaders of Europe's label and narrow web converting industry meet, connect, and shape what comes next.

IN THE RAPIDLY EVOLVING BUSINESS CONTEXT OF TODAY, THE ELF 2026 WILL ADDRESS SOME OF THE KEY DRIVERS AT PLAY:

- Market outlook & geopolitical uncertainty shaping investment, trade flows, and customer demand
- Regulation as a strategic driver, especially EU packaging and labelling requirements and their practical implications
- Sustainability & circularity in action, from PPWR and design-for-recycling to viable implementation
- Technology & innovation accelerating competitiveness—AI-enabled production, automation, smarter materials and processes
- People, skills & collaboration to build capability: leadership development, education, and stronger industry connections

ADD-ONS TO THE PROGRAMME

Apart from the regular conference programme and the pre-conference meetings, this year's edition will feature a number of optional additional programme items, designed to take maximum advantage of the networking opportunities, the ability to share collective wisdom and expertise present, and to enjoy some of the most exciting sights of the beautiful city of Seville:

1. 26-27 May: Leadership skills workshop hosted by the Young Professionals Network (YPN members only)
2. 27 May: Industry Roundtables (open to all FINAT members upon separate registration)
3. 27 May: FINAT Awards Ceremony and Dinner (included in the programme)
4. 28 May: Networking Dinner and Party at the historic Sevillian farmhouse Cortijo El Esparragal (included in the programme)
5. 29 May: optional AI Breakfast Workshop hosted by AI-expert Steve Metcalf (separate registration required)
6. 29 May: optional post-event City Tour Seville (separate registration)

To all label industry professionals, this is your invitation into the industry's inner circle. ELF 2026 is the only forum that offers curated access to the most influential minds in the business, not in a crowded expo hall, but in an exclusive environment designed for high-value peer-to-peer exchange.

WHY ATTEND ELF 2026?

- Unrivalled networking with Europe's top label printers, suppliers, and thought leaders
- Strategic insights from those shaping the market, not just observing it
- Collaborative energy you won't find anywhere else in the industry

Global economic outlook – navigating growth, inflation, and trade in a shifting world (Keynote speaker TBA) explores the political and economic forces shaping the business environment across Europe. Particular attention will be paid to the implications for European industries and investment decisions in 2026 and beyond. Given the event's location, the keynote will also highlight Spain's standout macroeconomic performance in recent years, examining the key drivers behind its resilience and what lessons may be relevant for other European markets.

10.15 – 11.00

Business-to-Business and Member-to-Member networking break

Opportunity to (re-)connect with peers and engage with our industry sponsors at the Tabletop Expo.

11.00 – 12.00

European label business landscape in 2025-2026

Get a fact-based snapshot of where the European labels and packaging market stands as we move from post-rebound recovery into a phase of recalibration. In one compact hour, three data-driven updates bring clarity to demand, confidence and competitive pressures across the value chain.

First, Jules Lejeune (FINAT) presents the annual European self-adhesive label materials consumption overview, based on Panteia (NL) statistics, tracking volumes, material mix and the market's shift toward a more 'GDP-like' growth profile. Next, Corey Reardon / Catalina Steenbakkers (AWA) summarise the latest FINAT RADAR findings from converter and end-user surveys, highlighting what is driving performance, investment priorities and sentiment in a cautious environment. Finally, Giedre Guskova (Euromonitor) shares key conclusions from FINAT's dedicated study on the rising import of label materials from China and what it may mean for European competitiveness, supply-chain resilience and potential next steps.

12.00 – 12.45

Setting the Scene

The brand, retail, and industry perspectives

This session sets the scene for ELF with an outside-in view of how retailers and brand owners see the future of labels and packaging. Bringing together perspectives from across retail and private label, e-commerce and logistics, FMCG and food, healthcare/pharma, automotive supply chains, and premium goods, the discussion explores how customer expectations are evolving, and what that means for label performance, information needs and innovation priorities over the next 5-10 years.

Through a mix of live panel dialogue and short video inputs, we will examine topics such as sustainability and recyclability requirements, traceability and data expectations (including smart packaging), pain points with current solutions, and how label producers can better support ESG and operational goals.

A moderated interactive (online) Q&A will invite delegates to challenge assumptions and identify concrete opportunities for collaboration across the value chain

13.00 – 14.30 | LUNCH

Opportunity to refuel, (re)connect with industry peers and visit premium suppliers represented in the expo area prior to the kick-off of the afternoon programme.

THEME: REGULATION, INNOVATION, TECHNOLOGY

14.30 – 15.15

Keeping the Course: climate ambition, competitiveness and the level playing field in Europe

Europe's sustainability rulebook is being rewritten, fast. For the labels and specialist packaging sector, the last few years have felt like a regulatory tsunami: PPWR, EUDR, CSRD, and a growing expectation to quantify product and process carbon footprints. In this session, Diederik Samsom, former Head of Cabinet of EU Commissioner Frans Timmermans and a key architect behind the European Green Deal, offers an insider's view on where EU policy is heading next, and why the political debate is shifting from ambition to competitiveness. With the Commission's emerging 'Omnibus' approach, parts of the regulatory agenda may be softened or delayed—raising tough questions about the level playing field for companies that have already invested in compliance and decarbonisation. How do we stay on track for climate goals while protecting European industry in an era of geopolitical and trade pressure? Expect a candid, strategic perspective on what will matter most for business decisions in 2026 and beyond—and what industry should be asking for now.

Sustainability dialogue 'Beyond Compliance': what regulation means for you

Sustainability is no longer a side agenda, it is where ambition, regulation and competitiveness come together. In this fast-paced Sustainability Dialogue, Stijn Billiet (Vice President EMEA Innovation & Global Sustainability at MCC Label), Francesca Stevens (Executive Director at EUROPEN) and Pablo Englebienne (FINAT Regulatory Affairs Manager) bring three complementary perspectives to one question: how can our industry move beyond compliance and turn Europe's transition into a business advantage? Expect a candid exchange on what 'sustainable' needs to mean in practice, how the EU framework is evolving from targets to implementation, and what companies require to keep investing—while protecting a workable Single Market and a level playing field. The focus is pragmatic: what you can do now across the value chain, where the biggest bottlenecks are emerging, and what the sector should be asking for next.

FULL WORKING PROGRAMME

THURSDAY 28 MAY 2026

15.45 – 16.15

BUSINESS-TO-BUSINESS AND MEMBER-TO-MEMBER NETWORKING BREAK

Opportunity to (re-)connect with peers and engage with our industry sponsors at the Tabletop Expo.

16.15 – 16.45

Real AI applications in label production:

From vision to execution

AI is no longer a buzzword in our industry—it is already improving real production KPIs. In this high-impact session, AI expert Steve Metcalf, CEO of Imagine AI Live (US), will translate the most relevant AI developments into practical opportunities for label converters. Starting from today's operational reality, he will show how AI is being applied to increase uptime, reduce waste, and enable smarter, more connected workflows, focusing on automation that delivers measurable value, not "AI for AI's sake". He will also connect current deployments to a clear forward view: what the label factories of the future may look like as machine capability accelerates and decision-making becomes more integrated across the plant. Expect concrete takeaways on where to start, how to prioritise use cases, and what leadership needs to get right to turn AI potential into execution.

16.45 – 17.15

Followed by two hands-on case studies showcasing how label converters are already applying AI in practice.

- Speaker tbd (Mail Druck & Media, DE) shares a best-practice example of an automated workflow powered by AI
- Carmen Lappi (Lappi, ES) reveals how to take the first practical steps in implementing AI on the production floor.

17.15 – 18.00

Drivers for innovation in labels (PANEL)

Innovation in the label industry is accelerating, but what's really driving it forward? In this dynamic panel, leading label producers and innovators take the stage to explore the forces shaping the future of our industry. From emerging materials and next-gen machinery to AI, automation and smart digital workflows, this session looks across the full spectrum of print technologies and production strategies.

What role do customer demands, regulation, and cross-industry developments play in pushing innovation? How are companies deciding where to invest? And what's the label industry's job to be done in a transforming packaging ecosystem?

Get real-world insights, hear from competition winners, and join the conversation about where innovation is heading and how your business can stay ahead.

Panelists:

- Jens Vor der Brüggen, Schreiner Group (D)

OPTIONAL: FINAT Morning Run

Details for signing up will be announced during the event/in the event app.

07.30 – 09.00

OPTIONAL: AI Breakfast workshop

This interactive session turns inspiration into action. Building on the keynote, Steve Metcalf will guide participants through a practical, hands-on approach to identifying and implementing AI opportunities in label production—tailored to the realities of converting operations. Together, we will map where AI-for-automation can deliver the fastest returns (e.g., uptime, waste reduction, quality consistency, and workflow optimisation), and how to move from scattered experiments to a coherent roadmap.

Participants will work with clear frameworks and simple tools to: (1) spot high-value use cases in their own plants, (2) assess data readiness and change impact, (3) define 'first pilots' with measurable KPIs, and (4) anticipate the organisational and leadership choices that determine whether AI scales. The session will also look ahead: how today's steps connect to the emerging model of more integrated, increasingly autonomous 'label factories of the future'. Bring your questions, and leave with a prioritised action plan you can take back to your team.

SOCIAL PROGRAMME

THURSDAY 28 MAY 2026

09.00 – 16.00

Excursion for accompanying persons:

Visit to Parque María Luisa & Cathedral of Seville

PARQUE MARÍA LOUISA

The Parque de María Luisa (María Luisa Park) is a public park that stretches along the Guadalquivir River in Seville, Spain. It is Seville's principal green area and is home to many monuments and to numerous ponds and fountains. Among the most famous are the Fountain of Lions (Fuente de los Leones) and the Water-lily Pool (Estanque de los Lotos).

Most of the grounds that were used for the park were formerly the gardens of the Palace of San Telmo. They were donated to the city of Seville in 1893 by the Infanta Luisa Fernanda, Duchess of Montpensier, for use as a public park. Starting in 1911, Jean-Claude Nicolas Forestier redesigned the gardens into their present shapes. In 1914 the architect Aníbal González began construction for the Ibero-American Exposition of 1929, which was held partly within the park.

THE CATHEDRAL OF SEVILLE

The largest Gothic Cathedral and third largest church in the world. A fusion of styles: Almohad, Mudéjar, Gothic, Renaissance, Baroque. Christopher Columbus is buried here. The Cathedral of Seville was built between 1401 and 1519. Constructed on the site of a former 12th-century mosque to symbolize the city's power after the Reconquista, this massive Gothic structure was designed to be one of the largest in Christendom. The main structure was largely completed by 1506, with final, finishing touches added later.

In 1987 UNESCO declared the monumental complex formed by the Cathedral, the Royal Alcazar and the Archive of the Indies a "World Heritage Site" because their coexistence in the same space constitutes a magnificent example of the great stages of the city's urban history (Muslim, Christian and the great metropolis of the sixteenth century as Puerto de Indias).

IMPORTANT NOTICE: in view of security measures at the Cathedral participants will be requested to provide their ID prior to their arrival in Seville.

LUNCH AT THE RESTAURANT ROBLES PLACENTINES

Located just a few meters from the Cathedral, Placentines is inspired by an authentic Sevillian wine cellar. With traditional décor and cuisine, this centrally located spot offers a unique cultural and gastronomic experience.

The background of the page features a large, abstract graphic. It consists of a grid of blue, rounded, polygonal shapes of varying sizes. These shapes are set against a dark blue background and are partially obscured by a thick, diagonal orange band that runs from the top-left to the bottom-right of the page. The overall effect is modern and professional.
